

Syrrin: U+EC30 – U+EC6F

Proposal by Danae Dekker, 2020-03-02

The Syrrin script was used to write several Cylenian languages, such as Old Cylenian and Carthiskian, that originated in the western part of the continent Borealia. This continent is situated in the Northern Atlantic Ocean on an alternative earth in the Atlantis project, an online forum for interactive geofiction.

The script was invented approximately around 100 BCE as a replacement for the Carthiskian logographic script and it is still used in the present in religious contexts.
